SEARCH FOR MISSING WOMAN ENDS WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN THE WOODS NEAR CRASH SCENE

March 3, 2106 / 9:28 am

About an hour after resuming the search for Amy Kennelly this morning, a woman's body was discovered in the woods. This discovery was made about 100 yards from the location where her car had crashed on the night of February 29th, 2016. The area was heavily wooded.

There is no evidence to suggest that the woman ended up in that location by any means but her own. No foul play is suspected in this case and the police department does not feel there is any danger to the public at this time.

The Snohomish County Medical Examiner's Office has been called to respond to the scene. Final identification and cause of death are determined by the Snohomish County Medical Examiner's Office.

The Edmonds Police Department is still at the location completing their investigation.
