U-HAUL TRUCK SLAMS INTO HOUSE NO ONE INJURED AND DRIVER UNDER INVESTIGATION FOR DUI

(Edmonds - WA)

A series of early morning calls to 911 about a recklessly driven U-Haul box truck culminated with the driver of that vehicle crashing into the garage of a house. The calls began around 5:50 am to 911 and included a hit and run complaint about a U-Haul that crashed into a fence. Other calls included a speeding U-Haul box truck and reckless driving. Patrol officers responded to the area, but before they could arrive a resident in the 7600 block of 200th ST SW called 911 to report the truck had crashed into their house.

When officer's arrived, they found the U-Haul truck had crashed into the garage of the residence. The vehicle and residence had significant damage. The residents were home at the time of the crash but were not injured.

A 23 year old Edmonds woman was identified as the driver. She was taken to Swedish Hospital in Edmonds for evaluation purposes. It is suspected that she was under the influence of drugs at the time and is being investigated for DUI.

Additional crash scenes have been found in the area, most of which involve damage to property (fences, landscaping and mailboxes).

The investigation is still ongoing.
